INBOUND!!!

Christine Wilson, 23, at Caltech's Mt. Palomar Observatory on Aug. 5, has spotted an inbound comet that may be as large as Halleys and visible to the naked eye in April when it passes within 50 to 60 million miles of Earth.

(Given the dimness of Halleys, could this be the Sign prophesied of Old as the "marker" for World-Change?)

HAPPENINGS:

Irradiated food is in use in use in 21 countries, but the U.S. food industry is not sure if American consumers are ready for it. Such food is exposed to low levels of radiation and remain edible 2 or 3 times longer, but long-term health effects and lowered nutritional values are being debated, and the answers are not in.

Lucid dreaming is a learnable skill, according to current research. This technique includes memorizing a dream when one awakes, and visualizing being back in the dream but being aware that one is dreaming. Lucid dreaming can aid in problem solving and the overcoming of fears.

Preliminary studies indicate that when heat is combined with interferon, the drug's effectiveness may be increased 15 to 20 times.

Practicioners of Transcendental Meditation claim it slows the aging process. The Japanese (suffering from "burn-out" due to 72 hour work-weeks) claim that TM helps them live with stress. The TM movement started in 1959 and was spread by the Beatles.

Ten U.S. zoos are participating in the Chimpanzoo program which is combining data from the Tanzania preserve with urban data. Among the studies is the effect of mothering on young chimpanzees. Current research has shown less protective mothers tend to raise chimps less socially adept than others, and that motherless chimps are unable to mother babies because they were never shown how.

Outgoing teen-agers are more prone to smoke, drink, and take drugs. Personality traits seem to be most important. Users are more independent and unconventional, and more willing to disobey parents and teachers. A study showed that heaby users continued use into adulthood, and few non-users became heavy users as young adults.

AMERICAN LACNUNGA:

The rising number of vitamin pill poppers may be risking health damage. People are being urged to get vitamins from food. Studies show that: Vitamin A at 5 times the RDA can cause headaches, liver damage, nose bleeds; D at 120 times RDA can cause fatigue, nerve damage, and numbness of extremities; B6 at 100 times can cause high blood pressure, fatigue, and block conversion of carotenes to vitamin A. Such chronic overuse is generally avoided in using multivitamins that supply only up to the 100% RDA, and those prescribed by doctors for specific use.

PRACTITIONERS' NOTES:

Shamans' Joining--Reading

Male: Before two shamans can join, both must be complete within themselves and achieve personal balance. To do this, the American Indians had the woman enter the lodges of the men as a man and the man enter the lodges of the women as a woman. Symbolically, this evening as two operators operating as one, she assumed the masculine role and I the feminine in the Ritual procedures; thus, before our joining, we have each gone to the lodge of the other such that each would bring complete balance within themselves to the joining.

Female: A man must first feel gentleness and a woman must first experience desire within to complete their own balances. Then a woman needs to respond to a man as a woman--with patience, stability and gentleness. If a woman responds to a man as a man he could consider her pushy or a threat. Likewise a man must respond to a woman as a man--with enthusiam and understanding. If a man responds to a woman as a woman she could lose respect for the man.

Male: Now in joining our personal balance, powers and strengths in harmony and unity, we act as one. Thus the Eagle and the Rose, Power and Strength, combine. Yet the rose is red in will and has it's thorn as well as strength in beauty and the Eagle is black in the color of the Earth. Within it's power is found compassion and strength. Each are well balanced within themselves, but when joined the total is greater than the sum of the two. Neither need yield their powers or strength, their wisdom or will. Only properly direct that which is theirs to enhance the total. In so doing each will grow individually as the total grows compositely. This is likened to climbing a ladder. One foot rises to a higher rung than the other to be a stable base upon which the other can balance and stabilize. Once firm on the higher rung, the lower foot is not threatened but rather secured so that it may rise to the next higher rung without fear of falling. Thus as the individual feet first support the rise of the one the trust the support of the other and rise themselves to even higher rungs to again balance and support. In this way the whole advances up the ladder ever higher acting in harmony and united continous effort.

#59
Dispersion
(Dissolution)

The entire period(about 9/20-10/10) appears to be one wherein there will be strong pressures to common unity and religious endeavors designed, hopefully, to dispense, rather than build, personal and/or factional egotisms.

DO NOT GET "CAUGHT UP" IN PERSONAL OR FACTIONAL EGOTISMS, PARTICULARLY OF A RELIGIOUS NATURE!!!

MORE OR LESS HEALTHY:

The National Center for Health Statistics recently released a countrywide health survey for the period 1977 - 1983 showing that although smoking decreased 10% for the period(more decrease for men than for women), there was a 28% rise in the number of people reporting taking 5 or more drinks (alcohol) per day; and there was a 10% increase in reported obesity (30% or more above medically desirable weight). Sleep-shortage increased also, with 7% more men and 17% more women reporting less than 6 hours of sleep per night.

STAR STUDIES:

Two new moons among Saturn's rings have been detected from the Voyager 1 space probe. They appear to lie in a gap(the Cassini division) between 2 major rings. Saturn also has at least 17 moons outside its rings. One expert suggests that the presence of the moons may have helped keep Saturn's rings in place over the eons by replenishing ring material.

Virgo, the Virgin. Virgo, a large but faint constellation, has been identified with a variety of heroines. The association with Ceres, goddess of the harvest, aptly relates to the brightest star in the constellation, Spica -- an ear of wheat or corn. Spica appears in the sky as bluish, which is extremely hot, and is the 16th brightest star.

EARTHWATCH:

Signs of the Times?

As of the end of August, we had reports of a variety of unusual "natural-world" phenomena in the Denver and Colorado areas:

1. Mid-month sighting of at least one large bunch of geese "vee'd up" and in a migration-style flight southward (at least a month early).
2. At least 2 different sightings of actual fireflys (not the native lightning-bugs), plus several reports of trees full of cicadas (firefly & cicada ranges being generally no further west than Kansas).
3. Sightings of canvasback, black, and goldeneye ducks, plus a mating pair of least bitterns (all birds generally not found west of the mid-continent flyways).
4. Eastern Colorado sightings of prairie-falcons (generally not this far south 'til October).
5. Several "rashes" of small earthquakes in places like Evergreen and Crested Butte (generally stable areas).
6. Unusual "hatch"- patterns of assorted insects all Summer ("hatches" at "wrong" times and places).

Additionally, we had reports of a large number of U.F.O.'s along the West Coast geologic fault-structures, many of the "U.F.O."s by description matching the kind of energy-burst phenomena expected if deep-level geologic pressures were actually "powdering" granite-structure quartz in the basic bedrock, these reports accompanied by others regarding unusual firefly-behavior as far north as Washington state.

It has also seemed to many of us here at Church Of Seven Arrows that our pets have evidenced unusually frequent and intense periods of anxiety-behavior for no discernable reason since Solstice.

The "net-out" of the foregoing seems to us to indicate that "World-Change" is proceeding apace, and along many of the lines (energy-wise) indicated by assorted prophecies, visions, and message-channellings being widely discussed in recent times.

Let's Talk Runes:

A ship in harbor is safe - but that is not what ships are for.
John A. Shedd

(ᚷ) Gebo is a rune of Freyr's eight. It is a rune of union, partnership and the gift of freedom. While this rune would indicate that some form of uniting effort is at hand, one is advised to not become overwhelmed by the effort. Every contract requires that each individual perform their individual part to insure the success of the contract.

This advice would apply to all relationships, contracts; and those efforts and agreements that require the time and attention of two or more persons. The relationship between Self(unconscious) and self (sonscious) is best approached in this manner.

Since Gebo has no reverse, this rune would symbolize the gift of freedom. The choice to abide by, or disregard any agreed to course of action. Remember that this freedom also implies responsibility for the consequences of your choice.

(ᛜ) Inguz is a rune of Hagal's eight. This rune is one of new beginnings and fertility. Intuition is one of the influences represented by this rune, in that intuition can help to bring conclusions to all beginnings. Thus is our self prepared for new beginnings.

To draw, or cast this rune serves notice to end certain aspects, habits, or ways of life. One should prepare to use this opportunity to deliver the results of cycles of actions. In this way, we are freed to start new projects, cycles, and ways of life.

To accomplish this preparation; examine, center, ground, and free yourself from ingluences that would restrict or obstruct. With humor, care, decisiveness, and observation; one can properly take advantage of the opportunities presented.

(ᛃ) Jera is a rune of Tyr's eight. This rune is one for cycles and the harvest that comes at the end of each cycle. One is encouraged to be positive, optimistic, and patient. For this rune symbolizes the passage of time needed to properly complete each cycle of life.

After preparation and planting, comes the cultivation. The longer the term of cycle, the greater the encouragement. Perseverance is in keeping with the influences symbolized by this rune. One is encouraged to be patient. Everything will come in its' time. To attempt to rush conclusions might do more harm than good.

HEALTH OF MIND & BODY:

Self Health

From experience, I am different from my mind or my body. Several other names for "I" are Self, Spirit, Soul or Theta. The body and mind are structures Self owns and uses. When Self disowns its body, in most cases it becomes disorganized and ceases to function as a unit in a process called death. When Self disowns mind or a structure from mind, in most cases it dissipates and ceases to exist as a unit. Self as owner and user of body and mind is in a position to have the greatest effect on the health of his/her mind and his/her body. This position can be taken advantage of to any degree, either positively or negatively.

Self can use energy sweeps to remove any unwanted item from the body. An Energy sweep, for this purpose, consists of the construction of a sheet of energy that is "keyed" to prevent the passage of the unwanted item through it. This energy sheet is swept through the afflicted portion of the body or the entire body. The energy sheet is then grounded out or otherwise properly disposed of. Keyings of energy sheets I have used include: alcohol and other poisons, bacteria causing a specific irritation, cellular and atomic level spirits that mutiny and cause moles and tumors.

Another cause of body disorganization is improper energy transfer. Impacts to the body can result in bruises, cuts, or torn ligaments, to name a few. The first step in repair of the body is removal of the excess energy. This can be done by grounding or sweeping the energy out. The second step is to reorganize the body pattern as it was before the impact. This can be done by focusing your (Self's) attention at points throughout the injured area, being sure to cover the entire area.

With a few basic understandings, these methods are simple and very effective, the effectiveness being the result of Self, as owner and user of its body, being the one repairing it.

VOICES IN THE WIND:

To Thunderbow --

From the tenor of T-bow while I've been a reader of it (about 4 years), there's something you seem quite aware of yourselves even though rarely mentioning it overtly in T-bow, a concept I would like to see directly addressed for the benefit of, or at least contemplation by, relative newcomers to the areas of Magical and Shamanic Practice -- the matter of Secrecy Traditions and their effects on the factuality and completeness of information in the commonly-known published books about the Practices.

The majority of younger persons (and some older persons who should know better) getting into Practice in the last ten-to-fifteen years seem to believe that anything in a printed book or magazine about Magical Practice is of course (a)complete and (b)accurate, such a belief completely disregarding the also-known fact that virtually all Magical Traditions, including those in our Western World, have "Secrecy Laws" to the effect that most writings of or about Magical Practices, Procedures, and Operations must (a)leave out necessary information that a reader having a level of training necessary to the proper use of the described Workings will personally "plug in" before undertaking said Works, and (b)contain "twists" ("words of confusion") to further confound any reader not of a sufficient level of training to correct the "twist" so as to safely use the information.

Leaving the aforesaid writings on Western Magical Practice (and other Magical and Mystical Traditions with writings) for the moment, we come to the recent writings about Tribal Religions and Shamanic Practice by such "authorities" as Joseph Campbell (a "later version" of Emille Durkheim--The Elementary Forms of the Religious Life--who never once actually observed or participated in the Practices he passed such "learned" judgement upon), Joan Halifax, and Michael Harner (to name a few of the current ilk I'm referring to) who seem to think that if someone with a white skin and a university-degree shows up in the area of Native Peoples anywhere on Earth, said Natives will forthwith open their hearts completely to the visitor and tell the whole and complete truth about their Practices and Rites to the visitor, and that any "demonstrations" for the visitor's benefit will also (of course!) be performed completely and accurately -- all this trust despite the also-known observations that virtually all Native Peoples have "Secrecy Laws" perhaps even more stringent than those of the above-mentioned Western Magical Traditions.

Voices in the Wind - cont'd:

I would like to see T-bow much more frequently reminding its readers of the foregoing "Fool-Traps" contained in the "authoritative" texts about Magical and Shamanic Practice currently "in vogue" in this country.

As protection against possible Magical or Shamanic "accidents" that may produce long-lasting Spiritual and/or Emotional damage, I would recommend that any researcher intending use of information from such sources as I've mentioned always (in my opinion) keep the following questions in the forefront of his/her thinking:

1. What's been left out in the description (of the Procedures and Rituals) that is necessary to SAFE performance of the Operation?
2. What has been changed by the original source of the information to protect the secrecy of his/her Sacred Traditions from "Outsiders"?

AND -- Remember that, observably, Magicians, Shamans, and Native Peoples virtually never give "Outsiders" the complete and accurate truth about the real sources of their particular Knowledges and Power.

(Could it be that they're smarter than "us" in that respect?)

Keep the Faith!!!
--Ridgerunner--

You said it at least as well as, and perhaps better than, we could have. Thanks!
-- Thunderbow --

Voice of the Turtle:

Be Thee CAREFUL!

In view of the various Influences (such as Chaotics and Space-People) that appear to be operating in the area of Earth at this time, a number of Traditional-Path Practitioners are decreeing or strongly recommending that ALL Trance-working, Projection, Out-of-Body, and Star-Oriented psychic and/or magical operations be halted by anyone wishing some degree of psycho-spiritual safety in these times.

While our(Church Of Seven Arrows') position is not quite so extreme, we are adamant that no operation involving Projection, or Out-of-Body, or "Out There" trances of any kind be undertaken unless:

1. The methodology does NOT require any form of Trance or Self-Hypnosis,
2. The Practitioner has a defined (point-location) destination,
3. The Practitioner thoroughly and accurately understands exactly how travel from one location to another is accomplished under control in all respects, and--
4. The Practitioner has, and is prepared to use, both offensive and defensive energy-handling techniques for self- protection if needed.

If you don't meet the foregoing criteria, our recommendation is "STAY HOME!" 'til things "settle out" a bit.

Relative other types of "Out There" - oriented operations, our position is that these should not be undertaken unless:

1. The exact "Responder" be known,
2. A tried and detailedly precise contact-method be used,
3. Some method of "double-checking" the "Responder-Credentials" be used,
4. Some method for afterward checking the Operator against clandestine psycho-emotional "tinkering" that may have occurred during the Operation be available,
5. Any "messages" or "instructions" be thoroughly checked for consistency with those from other similar operations, and for situational reasonableness (operative usefulness gives the observable situation in present time), and--
6. The Operator(s) be competent in, and willing to use, both offensive and defensive energy-handling techniques for self-defense if needed.

Additionally, NO Operations of any type described should be undertaken unless the Operator be thoroughly trained in methods for thoroughly Cleansing and Shielding of the Home-space and the Body before and after any Operations.

Keep in mind that it is your continued presence on Earth that is at risk, and conduct yourself accordingly.

BRITANNICA BOGGLE:

An unhappy employee undertook to secretly rewrite various portions of history for the 1988 edition of The Encyclopaedia Britannica (the oldest continuously-published work in the English language, begun in 1768) but was caught by a sophisticated cross-check computer-program and confronted August 22.

1. Danny's Basic Magic group got off to a "roaring" start and is proceeding well.
2. Dee & Fred organized a second rummage-sale that went as well as the June one -- with much less effort involved.
3. Eric's wedding went well--though it was a curious affair at Bonnie Brae Baptist Church, with a Baptist Minister attempting administration of a "traditional" Episcopalian Ceremony. (George was inveigled into wearing a tux for the first time in 30 years--Linda will have pictures.)
4. Pat K. began her Ritual Operator training with the September New Moon, giving Dee a respite, and will continue the sequence in November, Dee & George doing Oct's New Moon with the investiture of the new Intermediate Shamanism graduates.
